Albany Man Loses Life in Fire.

Fire destroyed the farm buildings of Robert Baird on the Cerek Road in East Albany Wednesday, Oct. 10th, and John Coolbeth, who had a horse in the barn was burned to death in trying to rescue the animal.

Services were being held in the Catholic church and a large crowd from the church gathered quickly and saved most of the household effects. All the small tools, three horses and about 45 tons of nice hay and grain were lost, and both house and barn were totally destroyed.

It is thought that the fire caught from sparks from the kitchen chimney. Insurance practically covers the buildings but only a small amount was carried on the personal property.

Mr. and Mrs. Baird bought the place about a year ago and had worked hard improving the property. They had just finished papering and painting inside the house.

Child Dies of Scald Burns.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. John Baird, who live on the Evansville road, in the death of their two-year-old daughter. Thursday night from the effects of being burned on Wednesday. The child overturned a tub of hot water from a chair, which scalded her about the chest and abdomen very badly and she lived only a little over 24 hours.

Eastern Stars at Craftsbury.

The annual meeting of district No. 7 was held with McKinley Chapter, No. 48, at Craftsbury Friday afternoon and evening. The attendance was not as large as some years owing to the distance and very poor roads. Nevertheless, all the chapters of the district were represented with the exception of two.

At 2 p. m. school of instructions for officers and members, conducted by Miss Abbie P. Clarke, Grand Lecturer, assisted by Intervale Chapter No. 61, of Orleans, which was helpful and interesting.

At 5 o'clock an excellent banquet was served by the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church.

At 7:30 the meeting was called to order and the opening ceremonies were given by McKinley chapter in a very creditable manner. The following grand officers were present and were welcomed and given seats in the East: Frank R. Nichols, Grand Patron; Mrs. Martha A. Stoddard, Grand Matron; Miss Abbie F. Clarke, Grand Lecturer, and Mrs. Florence K. Pierce, Past Grand Matron.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. D. Viola Sawyer, Worthy Matron of McKinley chapter, and a pleasing response by Mrs. Daisy C. Baldwin of Orient Chapter No. 13 of Barton.

The officers of McKinley chapter vacated the chairs and the officers of Colton Chapter No. 61 of Irasburg took their places and exemplified the degrees on two candidates in an almost perfect manner.

Review of work by Miss Abbie F. Clarke, G. Lec., who gave many helpful suggestions with but few criticisms. Short speeches were given for the good of the order by Grand Officers and the meeting closed in form by McKinley chapter. Much credit for the success of this meeting should be given to F. W. Cutting, D. D. G. P. of Barton and Mrs. Fannie E. Hannant, D. D. G. M., of Irasburg.

Robert H. Olley of Lowell, Mass., was a guest at Hotel Barton several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jenness of Sheffield visited at B. J. Jenness' and H. E. Paige's last week.

Mrs. H. F. Black of Newport is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. W. M. Wright.

Miss Charlotte Pierpont of Burlington was the guest of Mrs. A. P. Underwood the last of the week. Miss Pierpont spoke before the Boys' and Girls' exposition Friday.

GREAT COUNTY WAR CONVENTION.

Orleans county's great war convention takes place at Lane's opera house, Newport, Thursday afternoon, and it is probable that the place will be packed. Among the noted speakers to be present are Mr. Adam, representing the British war office, who made such a hit at the state war convention in Rutland; Prof. Robert McElroy of Princeton university, one of the great orators of the day; a representative of Mr. Hoover, and others. Every man, woman and child is invited to this great meeting.

Thinks Barton Unpatriotic.

Irasburg, Vt., Oct. 11, 1917.

Mr. Editor:

I notice in the Barton notes in the Monitor of Oct. 10, the following under the notices of the Afternoon Study club:

Paper, "By Invading Belgium, Germany Has Aided Civilization More than She Has Harmed It," Mrs. Lucy Atanasi.

I suggest that you send your reporter to this meeting so that you may be able to print for your patrons next week the contents of such an interesting and enlightening paper. The ladies of the Afternoon Study club are to be complimented on their patriotic spirit.

Very truly yours,

Florence E. Tinker.

Large Seat Sale, Good Concert.

The entertainment course for 1917-18, under the auspices of the Improvement club and conducted this season for the benefit of the Red Cross, started off well last week when the sale of season tickets, as shown by the seat drawing, was as large as last year.

The first entertainment of the course came Friday evening and drew a large audience. The talent was the "Filipino Singers and Players," and the program they gave was highly satisfactory judged by the comment of a very large majority. The singing part of the program was almost entirely minus as a result of colds which every member of the troupe of the sufferers, but the instrumental selections, the stringed instruments was very acceptable.

Mrs. J. W. Murkland.

The many friends of Mrs. Mary Murkland were saddened to learn of her sudden death which occurred Friday morning, Oct. 12, at the home of Mrs. P. L. Webster, with whom she had been staying for several weeks.

Mrs. Murkland had been in failing health for some time and was making preparations to close her home here and go to Watertown, Mass., to remain with her sister for the winter.

Mary Louise, Prouty, was born in Littleton, N. H., May 5, 1842, the daughter of Samuel and Emily Harvey Prouty, and spent the greater part of her life in East Burke. In 1879 she married Charles T. A. Murkland of East Burke and they lived there until about 1892, when they moved to Barton, buying what was known as the Groat place on Congress avenue, where they lived until the death of Mr. Humphrey, in 1899. In 1902, Mrs. Humphrey was married to John W. Murkland of Barton, who died March 31, 1916.

Mrs. Murkland was possessed of a quiet, retiring nature, a woman of high ideals, a loyal friend and neighbor, and one highly respected and loved by a host of friends here and in other places where she had lived. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, the order of Eastern Star and the Afternoon Study club.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Emily H. Tute of Watertown, Mass., and a brother, Charles W. Prouty of Springfield, Ill.

Services were conducted from the Methodist church, Monday morning, Rev. I. A. Ranney officiating, and interment was at East Burke.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' EXPOSITION.

Weather Did Not Hinder Young Folks from Good Time Friday.

The fairgrounds at Barton on Friday were well patronized by the numerous boys and girls—older people as well—who came from all over the county to attend the exposition. The larger part of those who attended brought something to exhibit so that the exhibits were many and varied. One boy carried a mammoth cabbage to the grounds all the way from Derby and went home satisfied with a first prize won. Another boy brought in three fine specimens of white Wyandottes, while still another brought in a miniature log cabin.

During the early part of the morning the time was taken up with setting up exhibits. There was a ball game in charge of C. S. Webster of Barton in the forenoon and during the latter part of the afternoon the sports were many and varied. Many fierce contests took place in a tug-of-war, sometimes with sides evenly matched but more often not. Sack races and three-legged races found many entries but one of the most unique and exciting contests was a husking match in which two boys each stripped a bushel of corn apiece while two men traced the corn, the side having the corn first traced being proclaimed the winner. A knitting contest was advertised but following the announcement that one woman had driven twelve miles with her knitting to participate and was well known in her ability, no other contestants could be found.

At two o'clock everyone assembled in the grandstand where short talks were given by Supt. Erwin of Barton, Miss Charlotte Pierpont of Burlington, assistant in charge of Boys' and Girls' Club work, and County Agent Johnson of Newport. Miss Pierpont made the award of the prize of $12.50 for the best collection of canned goods by any girl under 19. By the rules of the contest this girl was to write a story of her work and keep an accurate account of her expenses. In making the award Miss Pierpont stated that Mary Kennison of Albany had the largest variety of canned goods but that Arlene Marsh of Barton had written up her work so well that it was only fair that the prize be divided between the two. County Agent Johnson made the awards of the prizes for the best fourth-acre of potatoes and best eighth-acre of beans. Floyd Clark of Glover won the prize, his record showing a production of 40 bushels on one-fourth of an acre. It may be said in passing that Mr. Clark is an excellent gardener of his potatoes during this season, taking special care to keep the leaves of the potato vines well covered with bordeaux mixture. After nearly all other potato fields in the county were dead from the attack of blight, his vines were still vigorous and growing. Harold Caron of Brownington carried off the prize offered for the best one-eighth acre of beans. He harvested 5 pecks from one-eighth of an acre. A prize of $12.50 was also offered for five or more articles made from a specified list in sewing but as no one qualified this money was divided among those taking first place in the exhibits shown.

The exhibit of canned goods was of fine quality, over 200 jars of the various products being on exhibition. The West Derby graded school showed an exhibit of 36 varieties of canned fruits and vegetables, taking first place for an exhibit of this sort. The Cole Hill school at West Charleston also showed a very fine exhibit of 28 different varieties.

No money prizes were offered for any exhibits except the contest prizes already mentioned. Blue, red and white tags were given for first, second and third places respectively. A list of those taking first places with their exhibit follows:

White Wyandottes, Bert Patten, West Derby.

Plymouth Rocks, Maurice Roy, Barton

Onions, Harriet C. Silver, Derby

Cabbage, Robert E. Jenne, Derby Center

Carrots, James Fayer, Glover

Pumpkins, Victor Daniels of Albany and Frank Simino, Albany

ANNOUNCEMENT.

A. Allyn Bishop of Newport has recently purchased the Curtis Studio in Barton. The studio has been put in thorough repair and the operating room entirely changed, a large side window taking the place of the old-fashioned skylight. A dressing room has also been added. The high-grade of Mr. Bishop's pictures is well known, and he expects to work up a large patronage by the excellency of his work. At present Mr. Bishop will only be in Barton on Fridays. The studio will be open all the time, however, and those wishing to make appointments, can do so at any time. The slogan, "Everyone can buy what you give them but your photograph" has made photographs more and more popular as Christmas presents.

Those who intend to have photographs for Christmas are advised to sit as early as possible. As all the old negatives which have no commercial value will be soon disposed of, Mr. Bishop calls attention to the fact that any negative will be retained if the interested parties will notify the studio. Do not neglect this. Amateur work will be well and promptly done, and may be left at the studio at any time. Framing will also be a specialty. Frames of all sizes and styles will be carried in stock including the large oval frames with beveled glass for enlargements. 41-42

MAGAZINE TIME

If you take one or more magazines or papers this message will interest you. It may be a daily, a farm paper, or magazine, a trade publication, woman's magazine, or one of the popular monthlies. Whatever reading matter you take you can save money on it by acting on this announcement.

Under reciprocal arrangements publishers often grant special concessions to each other. The Monitor is in a position to offer the benefit of such concessions to its subscribers for a limited time. After November 10 readjustments of subscription prices, discounts to agents and publishers, etc., are made. What changes will be made are not known, but it is safe to say that there will be no reductions with the present price of paper, and the Monitor has already received notice of the intention of some publishers to raise the price of their publications after November 10. Others will reduce their price concessions to us.

It is therefore certain that no money can be saved by waiting and almost sure that money can be saved by acting now in subscribing for your reading matter.

These prices are made to Monitor subscribers only, as recognition of their patronage. A few years ago the Monitor numbered its subscribers who sent us all their magazine and newspaper subscriptions by the score. The list grew to hundreds and last year well toward 1000 persons sent us their business. They do it because it is convenient to order ALL their reading matter in one letter and of one publisher—and at the same time save a substantial bit of money, 15 to 20 per cent. California subscribers as well as local people take advantage of our rates. Subscribers who desire to take advantage of these prices must have their Monitor subscription paid at least three months in advance or include a Monitor subscription with their order.

While this offer is for Monitor subscribers only, it does not prevent Monitor subscribers from sending in their friends' or neighbors' list of magazines or papers with their own. We send papers or magazines to separate names and addresses whenever desired.

Monitor subscribers who have recently subscribed in the great Red Cross campaign or whose subscription does not expire for more than three months, need pay no attention to remittances for the Monitor, but simply send us the price of the several publications which they wish, stating whether each is a renewal or new.

We price below but a few magazines and papers. We can make equally low prices on practically any magazine, farm paper or periodical published. If you don't find what you want below, use the blank and ask for quotations.
